SUNDAY OBSERVANCE CRUSADE MERRILY ON AT UNIONTOWN.

Twelve Arrests Were Made This Morning and Merchants and Clerks Arrested Promptly Paid Fines.

THE MIDNIGHT PROSECUTIONS

They Have Been Discontinued and Informations Were Made This Morning—No Other Towns in Fayette for the Present Will Be Molested, It is Said.

UNIONTOWN, May 20.—Continuous performance is the Sabbatarian movement in Uniontown. The affair has developed into a machine-like, routine movement, of informations Monday morning and payment of fines later in the day. The excitement of the movement has practically died down and little interest in the affair is now being taken.

One change in the program was made today. Instead of routing Squire John Boyle out of bed at midnight to make out the informations, this was done at 8 o'clock this morning. Rev. W. Scott Bowman attended to this matter, Revs. J. Sale Leland and J. D. Gold being out of town.

Twelve arrests in all were made. The defendants paid the assessed fines and promised to be on hand next week. It is expected that the ministers will take the matter up before Council at its next meeting. L. L. Crawford, the druggist, one of the weekly defendants, is President of Council.

For the present it is said the Sunday observance movement will not be extended to other portions of the county. The prime movers in the fight for the total closing of all the stores and shops on Sunday have as much on their hands in the fight as they care to assume just at the present time. If they are successful eventually in their war on open stores in Uniontown it will be a much easier matter to close the stores that keep open in other towns and villages throughout the county. Some watch has been kept on Connellsville and Dunbar on recent Sundays, but no action toward bringing prosecution has been taken.

It is believed two days will be consumed in arguments.

NO CONTRACT LET

Bids for the Building of Point Marion Bridge Are Still Under Consideration.

UNIONTOWN, May 20.—Up until noon today the County Commissioners had come to no conclusion regarding the construction of the bridge at Point Marion, bids for which were opened Saturday. The figures were much higher than the Commissioners had estimated. Up to noon the Board was waiting for one member, John S. Graham, to materialize. The Commissioners will not say what the probable outcome of the conference will be, they think the cost is too much but as two Grand Juries and the court have passed in favor of the bridge it appears that the county is "up against it," as one of the officials remarked this morning.

Only five bids were entered for with the Canton Bridge Company posted its $10,000 check, no figures were submitted. The bids were as follows: York Bridge Company, $119,995; John S. Whittaker, $121,978; American Bridge Company, $126,250; Oswego Bridge Company, $129,111; and Nelson Construction Company, $130,200.

CUBA CELEBRATES

Independence Day With Great Enthusiasm and Demonstration.

HAVANA, May 20.—[Special.]—Cuba's Independence Day is being celebrated throughout the Island with great enthusiasm today. Practically all business is suspended. All public and many private business houses and dwellings in the city are decorated.

Officers and sailors from the warships Dixie and Des Moines took part in the celebration. Tonight there will be a brilliant illumination in Havana and other towns and cities.

UNDESIRABLE CLAMOR.

JUSTICE—"Judge ye not"—Leave it to me.

UP GOES WHISKY.

Heavy Advance is Made in Price of "Straight" Goods.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—[Special.]—Attorney General Bonaparte's decision as to what "straight" whisky is will, during the next 12 months, put about $12,000,000 into the pockets of distillers who make whisky of that kind. The fact that he would adhere to his original action in regard to that matter became known Wednesday. The next day whole alers received notice that "straight" whisky bottled in bond would hereafter be retailed at an increase of 20 to 25 per cent.

There is no reason for the increase in price other than that the members of the straight whisky trust can get more than they could before the Attorney General gave his opinion. The cost of production has not increased, or if it has, it has not increased at a rate even remotely approximating the increase upon the retail price.

ORDER OF KOKOAL.

Membership Composed of Coal and Coke Men and Pow-Wow Will Be Held in Pittsburg Soon.

On the eleventh day of the seventh month, July 11, the Order of Kokoal will hold its second annual pow-wow in Pittsburg. Elaborate preparations are under way for the event. The "prospectus" for the assemblage speaks by the card when it asserts that "Pittsburg is, without exception one of the most wonderful cities in the world and one that has the most varied and marvelous sights of any." It has been appropriately called the "Workshop of the World." Hence it is planned to make the trip of the Kokoalers educational as well as overflowing with sociability.

Kokoal has now 2,000 members, though but two years old. Its purpose is to cultivate fraternal relations among employes of coal companies and editors of coal journals, and also to establish the square deal and eliminate the knocker. It is modeled after the Hoohoos the social organization among lumber men. Its officers bear such unique names as skout, barnots, modoc, pirlot, swatta, gazook, mazumer and pit boss. Henry W. Shadle sales agent for the Pittsburg Coal & Coke Company, is he Barconet for this region, and W. G. Cronkright of the Old Colony Coal & Coke Company of Pittsburg is another official.

The mystic numbers around which the ritual circles are 7-11 and 7-11-11. The initiation fee is 7-11. The membership is limited to 11,144. Unlimited fun is suggested by such mysticism and, doubtless, the Pittsburg pow-wow will be a rousing success.

The suit is to recover $115 alleged to be due on a book account for produce shipped the defendants.

A MARINER TOWED IN.

Officer Bayless Pilots Seaman in Distress Into Local Port.

PETE COSTALSO ON LONG WALK.

Too Ill to Sail on Great Lakes He is Tacking Before the Breeze Towards Baltimore for Berth on an Oyster Boat—Police Court Hearing.

Fifteen men on a dead man's chest,
Yo! ho! and a bottle of rum.

These melodious strains of Stevenson's famous lines caught the ears of W. T. Bayless early Sunday night as he cruised westward along the B. & O. tracks near town. The refrain sounded grewsome to the officer's ears, and a scouting expedition followed. An old salt, flying distress signals, was sighted through the rain and mist.

"Ship ahoy!" hailed the officer.

"Aye, aye, sir," came the reply.

Bayless changed his tack to starboard and hove to beside the shipwrecked mariner. The derelict was Peter Costalso, a mariner in a long voyage from Chicago to Baltimore. Arriving at Port Pinkey Rotter, Peter was towed into wharf No. 1 until morning, when he toiled in before Burgess Solsson, smelling of the sea and covered with barnacles from keel to top sails.

"Shiver my timbers, your honor, I am a peaceable mariner who has harmed no one. Give me my sailing papers and let me sail on," was his greeting.

Peter then explained that he was born in Buenos Ayres 63 years ago, is a sailor by trade and too old to get employment on the Great Lakes. He is headed for Baltimore to get a job on one of the many fishing smacks at that port. He has been making the cruise on foot, being three days out from Chicago, during which time two pairs of shoes have been discarded on account of being worn out.

Peter, who is of Italian descent, is now coasting from port to starboard in Burgess Solsson's back yard, leveling a quantity of dirt, for which he will be paid. Then with real money aboard, the cruise will be resumed.

George Thomas of Lemont works was the other victim this morning. He was arrested by Officer Anderson and is suspected of being insane. His actions do not appear rational. Burgess Solsson directed that he be held for an investigation. It is likely that he will be sent to some asylum.

Common drunks composed the bulk of Burgess Solsson's Sunday business. Charles W. Jackson and Angelo Marcantonio, a negro and an Italian, were arrested for insulting three ladies of color. Ada White, whose name belies her color, appeared against the men. She testified that Jackson tried to introduce her to Angelo, but not being that kind of a woman, the proposition was indignantly cast aside. This made Misiah Jackson sore and he said some mean things about Ada. At the hearing both men were fined $10 or 10 days to the coop. Angelo paid. Both men work on Tom Neville's camp train.

Veterans to Meet.

The regular monthly meeting of the Union Veteran Legion will be held Friday evening in Rutsek's hall.

POLICE CHIEF KILLED.

And Two Detectives Killed by Bomb in Odessa Police Station.

ODESSA, May 20.—[Special.]—The Superintendent of Police of Odessa and the two chief detectives of the city were killed and seven other persons seriously injured by the explosion of an infernal machine in the central police bureau this morning. The building was wrecked.

A young girl was the principal agent of the Terrorists in the explosion of the infernal machine in the Central Police Bureau today, resulting in the assassination of the Superintendent and two detectives and the serious injury to seven others. Two men who assisted the girl in carrying out the plot were captured after being wounded but the girl leader escaped.

They had entered the building together, the girl carrying a bundle which she deposited in a chair. After making inquiry of the officers in charge they left. One of the detectives picked up the bundle to run after the girl and the explosion occurred.

Pursuing officers shot and captured the two men one of whom has been identified as "Terrorist" Tchertkoff. One of the detectives killed was known as "The Hangman," because he tortured political prisoners while the other was equally hated for helping to incite riots in the outbreak of 1905.

BATTLE ROYAL

Will Be Waged on the Diamond Between Fraternal Societies—Elks and Eagles to Combat.

A battle royal is to be waged soon in Connellsville on the diamond. Such a contest has never been seen since the Courier and News forces met in bloody combat last season. The Elks and Eagles are planning a baseball contest. The Great American bird will scream while the woods will resound with the bay of the Elk as the representatives of both orders trot around the circuit. It is expected that the game will be arranged for the benefit of the Connellsville West Penn team all proceeds to go to that organization.

For their prowess on the diamond several years ago the Elks are touted as favorites, but the Eagles have some dark horses or birds, rather, in their nest, ready to spring on the opposition with all sorts of hits and fielding stunts. There is Joe Gobright, for instance, who wields a bat as dexterously as he does a pen on the books of The Courier Company, while in the outfield he eats them alive. There are other stars among the Eagles who will make the Elks leap high and run hard to take the game.

It is expected that this honorable contest will be pulled off some time during the next ten days or two weeks. Several members of both orders are hard at work making arrangements, while the rest will soon go out, throw off their coats and practice up. When the great day comes, well—there will be something doing in the base ball line.

Church Rededicated.

The Central Christian church of Uniontown was rededicated yesterday, many visiting members of the denomination being present, including a delegation from Connellsville. The building is a model in church architecture. It is built of brick, with special attention being given to the features of utility. It is complete and roomy in its every part.

Then the Season at Olympia Park Will Be on Full.

The formal opening of Olympia Park for the present season will be pulled off next Monday with a big display of red fire and other pyrotechnics. On that date the merry-go-round theater will be opened and from then on the best attractions of that kind will be found at Olympia.

The pyrotechnical display will be something out of the ordinary. It is likely that most of the West Penn officials will be present to witness the ceremonies.

MAY PROTEST.

Said That Umpire Culligan Robbed Connellsville of the Game at Fairmont on Sunday.

There is every possibility that Manager W. S. Malarkey will protest Sunday's game at Fairmont and endeavor to have it set aside. It is claimed by those who saw the contest that the umpiring was decidedly unfair and that alone caused Connellsville to lose. Haugh, of Fairmont, who scored the only run on either side, was nipped at the plate by a yard, it is said.

Mr. Culligan who officiated here two games with little credit to himself, handled the indicator at Fairmont Sunday and it is said that his decisions were so rank that even the Fairmont rooters jeered at him. This is not the first time, if the charges be true, that Culligan has displayed antagonism towards Connellsville.

Outfielder C. L. Parsons arrived in town Sunday. He looks "every inch a ball player and will make good with the fans. Those who know him say he hits like a fiend, runs like a streak, and fields like a veteran. Then they run out of superlatives. Parsons does look good and if there is anything in that he will be the star outfielder of the league.

Clarksburg is scheduled to play here this afternoon. Both teams are out No. 3, which was announced three hours behind time this morning. This will put the train in here after 1 o'clock. The delay will cause Malarkey to miss the League at Latrobe this afternoon.

The Crossan Construction Company of Philadelphia was the luck bidder and the contract was closed this morning. Work will be started in 10 days and, according to the terms of the contract, the entire line will be completed, ready for rails to be laid, by November 11.

NOW THEY ARE WONDERING

What It Was All About and Why They Ran—Room Was Cleared Quicker Than Woman's Convention Adjourned by Mice—Gun Looked Like a Cannon.

Special to The Courier.

POINT MARION, May 20.—For record breaking exits those who occupied the lobby of the Colonial Hotel here carried off the palm Sunday afternoon. There was a scurry such as seen only when someone invades a quiet poker game and whispers "Cheese it, the house is pinched."

The proprietor, barkeeper and several guests were sitting around quietly discussing the work of Frankeberry, a native son who is coaching for Buffalo, the weather, the bridge question and other events of the day when in the open door came a woman with blood in her eye and a double-barreled shotgun in her hand. That gun looked like a cannon. The woman said nothing, for in an instant there was no one to talk to. One guest tried to climb up a chimney. Several took the rear door. Too many went this way and there was an instant's jam.

The proprietor, clerks and other help were especially anxious to decamp. One took the back door on the jump while another went upstairs five steps at a time. The room was cleared quicker than a woman's convention can adjourn before an invasion of mice.

The woman, never opening her mouth, walked around a bit and inspected the furniture. Then she went out and walked down town. Slowly and alone the scattered party reassembled, cautiously peering around various corners to see if the danger had passed. The invader is well known in Point Marion and is said to be eccentric. The hotel people half believe she is inaugurating a Sabbatarian movement in Point Marion and wanted to see how the Blue Laws are being obeyed. After that the men forgot their tobies and even quit reading the Sunday newspapers. But a guard was posted at each door to prevent a second attack.

VISITS HUSBAND.

Mrs. W. L. Cate Sees Murderer of Officer Guess in Uniontown Jail This Morning.

UNIONTOWN, May 20.—Mrs. William L. Cate, wife of the murderer of Chief of Police Thomas L. Guess of Bellevernon, came to Uniontown this morning and paid a visit to her husband, who is lodged in the county jail. She held a long conversation with him, the gist of which is not known.

Cate, who broke down after the reaction came on following the shooting, is in better shape now and will be in good physical condition when the trial comes off, it is believed.

SNAKE STORY.

Big Black Reptile at Uniontown That Attacks Boys in Daylight.

They have a snake in Uniontown. A six-foot blacksnake is alleged to have jumped at two boys yesterday afternoon and wound itself around the leg of one of them, W. P. Cornelius, aged 14. According to the story Cornelius fought 20 minutes with the snake before he could unwrap it from around his leg. In the meantime a great throng had gathered and watched the battle. The account says when anyone would go near the snake would make a spring at them, not explaining though how it got back around Cornelius' leg.

Finally the snake and Cornelius both got free and started in opposite directions. The snake is still free. Cornelius was not injured.

BIRMINGHAM'S FIELDING GOOD.

Woodruff Pitched Well While McFarland for the Home Team Was Practically Invincible—Clarksburg Comes Here for Game Today.

Connellsville lost a fine game to Fairmont yesterday afternoon at Fairmont There was a good crowd out despite the weather and they saw good baseball from the first to the last inning The score was 1 to 0 Fairmont scored in the second inning and that lone tally was all they could squeeze over the plate Woodruff was on the rubber while McFarland speeded them over the pan for Fairmont He was invincible Three little singles were the sum total of Connellsvilles bingling

Woodruff pitched his usual steady game and with a little bit of hitting would have been returned a winner Birminghams fielding was the feature of the game The little third sacker handled nine chances without a slip up Some of them were difficult but he was all over the infield and shot them to first with the accuracy and speed of a rifle ball Jacquot played left field in Essiers place the latter going to Clarksburg on Sunday where he will have charge of the team

NEW MILK LAW.

Will Affect Dairymen Who Sell by the Wholesale.

A new law will go into effect July 1 which will affect all milk producers in Fayette county who sell the fluid by wholesale After that date all such milk sales must be made liquid or wine measure instead of dry or beer measure

Among the farmers and dairymen of the county it is not expected that the new law will make any great difference in prices but it will establish a standard so that the milk producers will know where they stand The liquid or wine measure gallon contains 231 cubic inches Heretofore the farmers have been selling their milk by wine measure according to the size of their cans and many did not know the difference

Standard milk weighs 100 pounds to the 40 quart can dry measure while the 40 quart can liquid measure will weigh only 86 pounds or 2 15 100 pounds to the quart At creameries receiving stations and other places where milk is bought by weight instead of measure the number of pounds has been divided heretofore by 2 50 100 to find the number of quarts but after the first of July it will be necessary to divide the number of pounds by 2 15 100 to find the number of quarts

SOMERSET NEWS.

Happenings of a Day Among the Frosty Sons of Thunder.

SOMERSET, May 18.—Ames Hoyle, a well known resident of Somerset, was killed this morning at Quemahoning Junction, five miles north of town, by being struck by an engine while going about his duties as section boss on the Somerset & Cambria branch of the B. & O. Mr. Hoyle did not hear the engine approaching and was run down, his body being mangled in a horrible manner.

Mr. Hoyle lived in Somerset on West Main street and was well known here. He was a soldier in the Civil War and was a member of R. P. Cummins Post, G. A. R. He was about 60 years of age and is survived by a widow and three children, Emma, wife of Harry Keifer, this place, Ida of Westmoreland county, and John of Somerset, a fireman on the S. & C. branch of the B. & O. Funeral will take place Sunday. Deceased was a member of the Disciple Church.

On Monday the regular May term of Court of Quarter Sessions and Oyer and Terminer will commence here, a list of 70 cases embracing many kinds of felony and misdemeanor. Among the cases listed are two in which the charge is murder. The one is brought by Deputy Sheriff G. N. Schrock against John H. Miller of Shade township for the murder of Mrs. Catherine Stauffer, his mother-in-law, at her Lambertsville home on the night of October 30, 1906. The other murder case is brought by James Emerick of Boynton against John Flickinger, charging the murder of his brother, Wesley Emerick, in the woods near Boynton ,Elk Lick township, last October. This is a rather sensational case and at a habeas corpus hearing last fall to determine whether or not Flickinger should be held in jail some startling facts were brought out. It is not known whether either or both of these cases will be tried, but as they have each been continued, as is the prerogative of the counsel for the defense, it is likely that at least one will be tried.

Yesterday was the regular day set by the court for holding Sheriff's sales and a number of pieces of realty were disposed of. About fifteen properties in all portions of the county were disposed of and several were held over Judge Richard S Holt of Beaver returned to his home this morning, the term of civil court in which he was assisting Judge Kooser having been adjourned.

N. A. Cort, a well known Mt. Pleasant attorney, who has been in Somerset for several days past in connection with a damage suit against the B. & O. brought by the heirs and widow of William J. Hitchman of Mt. Pleasant, has returned to his home.

J. D. McCubbin, a well known Baltimore attorney, who has been in Somerset for several days past in connection with a civil suit in which he had been retained as counsel by the B. & O., has returned to his home.

The special May term of Common Pleas court was concluded yesterday by the jury returning a verdict in the case of the widow and heirs of William J. Hitchman, deceased, of Mt. Pleasant, against the B. & O., the Hitchman heirs being awarded $6,937 as damages sustained by them by reason of certain encroachments upon their lands at Markleton, this county, by the B. & O. The Hitchman heirs own a strip of land along the Casselman river the tracks of the defendant B. & O. being between the Hitchman property and the river. As the river eroded part of their embankments, the B. & O., as set forth in the testimony, would move their tracks to the Hitchman property, finally occupying a considerable portion of this property. After several days of argument and hearing of evidence the case was given to the jury last night and finally decided as stated above.

From Westmoreland's County Seat.

GREENSBURG, May 20.—All day Saturday the Westmoreland Association of Township Road Supervisors wrangled over the success of the cash road tax system, but the question, which is hanging fire in a dozen Westmoreland county townships, is still on. W. W. Martz, representing Salem township, declared that the new system was a great success. That more than double the work had been accomplished last year than ever before under the old system. He stated further that the millage had been reduced to 5½ mills and that a greater reduction will be made when the new valuations are completed. Martz, who is a Supervisor, mentioned, however, that he frequently works as a laborer under one of his road masters, and this drew fire from a Sewickley township contingent, who claim that discrimination rules there under the new law, and that many farmers get no opportunity to work out their taxes. It was also stated that one Sewickley township Supervisor is working as road master, contrary to law, and that coal companies do the roads more harm than good by hauling out slate that must of necessity be removed and then charging for it at the same rate as stone. The new organization promises to be an educational institution.

At least a dozen well known Greensburg business men have offered to finance the West Penn baseball club here. Charles J. Brown, John McPharland and Nevin McConnell are negotiating to take over the franchise, and state that they have more applications for stock than they can take care of. The terms of transfer will be decided at a meeting of the League Directors held in Latrobe this afternoon. Only one player has left the local bunch. This is James Leroy Dekin, southpaw pitcher and outfielder. He went last night to Lawrence, Mass., where he will play with the New England League. Under National rules, three days at home without pay after pay day releases a player, and Dekin takes advantage of this. The club is mighty sorry to lose him. He was a sure fielder and one of the best hitters on the team

Friends all over the Bolivar district are wondering why Charles W. A. Clark, a well known young man of that place, killed himself. Clark, who was only 18 years old and very popular, was found dead Saturday evening in the woods near his home. He had pressed the muzzle of a Winchester single shotgun against his heart, pulled the trigger with a sumach stick hooked through the guard, and died. No motive for the crime can be found. In the morning he had been to Bolivar, five miles away, on business. After dinner he started out with the gun, asking his mother if she would cook a groundhog, providing he shot one. She said she would, and that his brother would be out from Bolivar for supper. Clark was prominent socially.

Constable James Martin of Hempfield township, yesterday arrested John Hudak, a Slav, wanted in Clearfield county for a murder committed in December, 1903. A reward of $600 is attached to this man, and Martin will receive it. The Sheriff of Clearfield was here today and took the prisoner home. He made a confession in jail alleging that he killed a countryman in self defense. Details of the case are not known.

"LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION"

It is said that Theodore Roosevelt is sincere in declining to run again for President but that he would not be averse to the compliment of a nomination, so that he could go George Washington one better by refusing a sure thing officially offered

Colonel Crago's ambitious mind seems to run in the same direction. He wants to be elected Colonel of the Tenth Regiment just to round out his military career. He promises to resign after the pomp and pageantry of just one encampment

The precedents asked to be established with the permission of the people and the militia are dangerous in practise, however excellent and innocent they look in their individuality

All men are not so honest as President Roosevelt and Colonel Crago. The rule they would establish might be taken advantage of by scheming and dissimulating successors to prolong their power indefinitely

"Lead us not into temptation" is the nightly petition of the righteous. Even good people know the dangers of temptation. They know the weakness of the flesh. They seek to be saved against it.

If it is better for Christians to avoid temptation it is better for Presidents and Colonels to avoid it also.

BOROUGH FINANCES, HOW TO IMPROVE THEM

The Butler Eagle imparts the interesting information that the borough has rejected the old system of borrowing money from the banks on certified orders, thus incurring indebtedness faster than the income warranted, and commends the Borough Auditors for having accomplished the reform

The practise in Connellsville is not quite the same, but its effect is similar. The Auditors didn't stop it because they couldn't but the Finance Committee has indicated a purpose so to do. The custom will have to be stopped, or the people will stop the terms of the Councilmen who countenance it. The better plan is to collect the taxes as they are due and to pay for improvements as they go

The Washington Observer, on the other hand points out that investors as a rule prefer securities yielding a higher rate of interest than municipal bonds, and that in consequence such bonds go begging in the market

This is only too true

Butler has $60 000 floating indebtedness and Connellsville has outstanding about $53,000 certificates in indebtedness. It is desired to fund the Connellsville indebtedness at a less rate than 6 per cent which it now bears, but in the present state of the money market it is doubtful if this can be done

Nevertheless the wisdom of issuing bonds is undoubted, even though they bear 6 per cent. While the borough will gain nothing in the way of interest it will have made long terms for its debt and it can make proper provision for its extinguishment. As it now is, demand may be made upon the authorities at any and all times

The certificates are practically all held by local banks, a condition which might not always be convenient for local business. Bonds are more readily negotiable than certificates

Connellsville needs a new set of ordinances and one of them should regulate its financial affairs and impose serious penalties for its non observance

EXAGGERATED EGO NOT CONTAGIOUS.

"For pronounced evidences of an exaggerated ego commend us to the occupant of the editorial sanctum of The Connellsville Courier," says the vociferous and vox populus vain and vaunting, violent and villyfying venal and vulnerable Uniontown Herald

When the freshly born and freshly spoken self appointed censor of Fayette county journalism is not misrepresenting and abusing others it is heaping praises on its devoted head

The "exaggerated ego" never appeared in the newspaper offices of this section until our accomplished and overpowering contempora[ry] set up in the business of teaching un[i]ty jakes metropolitan journalism

So far as we have noticed, the disease is not ketchin."

"The Court House Plunderbund continues to maintain a masterly silence" says the Uniontown Herald. The Herald perhaps didn't mean it but it has told half a truth. There is no evidence whatever that the county officials being hounded by The Herald have plundered anybody or that they contemplate asking for reelection to office. Their silence under the circumstances is at least dignified and possibly masterly

Connellsville played baseball on Sunday and got licked. Conscience probably smote them

The citizen who takes no interest in his primary politics had better move to Russia where public interest in politics is not encouraged.

Speaker McClain announces that he has wrapped the rattlesnake flag around him and adopted its motto "Don't tread on me." What he is really doing is dragging his coattails on the ground and crying aloud "Who'll tread on the tail o' me coat"

The work tax still has a place in the hearts of some Westmoreland county Road Supervisors. The spirit of progress does not come to all

The Sunday closing epidemic has struck Greensburg but no serious damage is reported. The Sunday closing movement seldom assumes a virulent form unless Sunday observance is so slack as to cause a revulsion of feeling or unless the community is dominated by a puritanical sentiment

Uniontown furnishes the first snake story of the season and it's a big one of course

People who have not the courage or the inclination to sin are entitled to little credit for their virtue

Milk must hereafter be sold by wine measure. It's all right but it sounds bad to the Prohibition ear

The Poles preached patriotism on Sunday. It was an excellent sermon

The advance in "straight" whisky will not affect the primaries. The whisky used to influence votes cannot by any stretch of imagination be called straight

Its truly wonderful how the minds of some statesmen have broadened since they have been paying railroad fare

The Uniontown Standard says: "The Connellsville Courier explains at length its attitude toward the proposition to allow the people to vote their choice for United States Senator. The Courier is in favor of the principle but against the enforcement." This is about as nearly correct as The Standard gets anything when it doesn't want to be accurate. The Courier is not against enforcement but against all the fool legislation that won't enforce. The Standard's limited understanding does not enable it to detect a promise to the ear that rings false to the hope

A train of thought is easily stopped but hard to start again. Don't flag the editor when he is trying to make connection with the pressman

The bucketshop men kick against being kicked out of business. So do the poker joint proprietors

Canada is discriminating against the American newspapers. The Kanuck editors ought to get more enterprising and make better papers

Many surprising things are in store for the person who begins to think more of the happiness of others and less about his or her own comfort

Coroner Hagan wanted to show and be shown about the Guess murder. He has developed the Missouri idea

The habit of leaving burning kerosene lamps all night in sleeping rooms especially those occupied by children should be discouraged. It is injurious to health and dangerous to life

Public spirit and private interest are frequently seen in the March of Progress but the one is always pulling the load and the other riding atop of it

Pennsylvania produces twice as much bituminous as anthracite coal. The center of the coal trade has moved west of the Alleghenies

The Latrobe Bulletin predicts that the bill granting the right of eminent domain to trolley companies insures the early completion of street railway connection between Greensburg and that place

A few non-progressive farmers can no longer hold up trolley improvement. It requires 50 per cent of them.

THE WEATHER.

Western Pennsylvania—Fair Monday Tuesday fair and warmer light to fresh northwest to north winds

The Carpet Room.

Lots of people find something to interest them in this carpet room of ours. Of course the best proof that we have that our carpets and prices are right is that people who have bought carpets in years that are past are back again this year buying carpets. Just so do we expect the carpets that we sell this season to help sell carpets in the years to come. The real test of a carpet comes after you have it in your home. Then is when you know whether you want to go back to where it came from and buy another.

Stinson Tapestry and Velvet Carpets.

We have been selling this make of carpets for pretty nearly thirty years now. If you are an old resident you can probably remember when this store was located on the hill. A woman told us this week she still had a Stinson Velvet carpet that she bought from us when we were up there. Of course this is an exceptional case but it gives some idea of the wearing qualities of Stinson carpets. Velvets at $1 ... the yard and Tapestry at $1 10 the yard made, laid and lined. Ask some of your neighbors about this make of carpet. That is if you have never used a Stinson carpet in your home.

9x12 Rugs.

Prices on these start at $16 00 and from that on up to $45 00. Call special attention this week to the showing of Bod Brussels Rugs at $2_ 0 and Biglow Electra at $27 0. This line of patterns in these two lots is larger than for some time and if you have a rug want worth seeing.

Lace Curtains.

For this week there is a showing in Nottingham curtains at $1 00 and $ 0 the pair. We never had prettier patterns or better curtains to show you for these prices. Do not believe we are exaggerating when we say they are bargains at the prices quoted. Come and see the curtains and tell us if we are right.

China and Japan Mattings.

We want you to find out for yourself whether we have these mattings priced right or not. If by reason of right buying we are in a position to save you some money on your purchases of these goods we ought to have your matting business. Quality for quality there's a saving for you on these mattings of from 5 to 10 cents on the yard. You can find out about this by coming and seeing these mattings.

In the Cloak Room.

Ready to wear wash dresses at from $1 00 to $_ 00. A showing of these that's worth the time it will take to see. We want you to examine the way they are made. Looks to us like a waste of time and money to buy the material and hire them made or even to make them yourself.

Children's Dresses.

Sizes 1 to 6 years and priced from 60 cents up to $5 00. Made as you would have them made. Neatly trimmed and of good material and you can buy some of these or just about what you would pay for the material alone. The colored dresses are made from ginghams, percales and lawns in neat patterns. Suppose you see them.

IS HEALTH OFFICER.

Allen Porter Appointed by State Department for East Huntingdon Twp.

THE NEWS OF SCOTTDALE.

Sergeant Major Anderson Writes Interestingly from Cuba—Winner of Free Scholarship—Newspaper Man a Candidate.

SCOTTDALE, May 19.—J. Allan Porter, sub carrier on the rural free delivery route out of Scottdale, has been appointed by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, at Harrisburg, to the position of Health Officer of East Huntingdon township. This is one of the most thickly populated townships in the State and the presence of mines and coke works makes it one of the most important from the standpoint of health conditions. Mr. Porter is the first person ever appointed for the township, and his position does not have anything to do with the regular Health Officer in the boroughs. The township officer's duties in general consist of placarding various communicable diseases upon being notified of the same by the physician in charge of the case or the County Medical Inspector, and to have the premises disinfected upon the termination of the disease. The Health Officer will investigate the sanitary conditions of each of the public schools within his jurisdiction and certain periods specified by the Department, will investigate the pollution of streams, the conditions of bone boiling establishments, piggeries, construction camps, creameries, dairies, picnic grounds, dumping grounds, fertilizing works, slaughter houses, report all menaces to public health arising from pools of stagnant water, and perform other duties under the direction of the Commissioner of Health or the County Medical Inspector.

J. W. Foote of Connellsville a representative of the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, Pa., has closed a profitable week's work in connection with a display of the school's work in the show windows of S. A. Culp's store. A feature was a ballot box in which any one who desired left a coupon bearing their name and the course they wished to pursue if they drew the lucky ballot entitling them to a free course. The fourth one to be drawn by a party blindfolded was the lucky one. Leo Miller did the drawing and the fourth one out of the box was that bearing the name of H. B. Strickler, of 501 Pittsburg street.

Hon. Berkey H. Boyd arrived home from Harrisburg on Saturday morning, the session of the Legislature having closed. Dr. E. P. Weddell, the other member of the Legislature from Scottdale, accompanied by Mrs. Weddell, arrived Saturday night.

Among the many candidates for Director of the Poor that have visited Scottdale none seems more popular than R. D. Wolfe, of Greensburg, who seeks the nomination on the Republican ticket, and who spent Saturday here. Mr. Wolfe has been a newspaper man in the County Capital for the last 18 years and has been writing much of the matter that has helped other candidates to get there, and now he is taking a try at office himself, the first time, too. As there are five to be voted for for nomination, the newspaper man, who is well known all over the county, stands a fine show.

While the days may be cool here, Albert M. Anderson, Sergeant Major of the Seventeenth Infantry, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Anderson, from Camaguey, Cuba, on May 9, reaching here May 17, that the weather there is intensely hot, no rain having fallen for some time, and everything seemingly burning up for the want of a little moisture. He goes on further to say that the water supply is getting low, and unless they get rain he fears the water supply will give out altogether. "I was discharged on May 2," he continues, "and reenlisted on May 3, and unless something unforeseen should turn up, will sail from Nevitas, Cuba, June 6, on the 'Curitiba,' Munson Steamship Line, for New York, and will arrive home about June 12. I have had quite a time getting my furlough approved. The first time I requested leave of absence it was disapproved by the Adjutant General at Havana, but I immediately renewed the application, which was finally approved. Will let you know about the first of June whether or not I shall be able to sail as intended. Several days ago I mailed you a small book, entitled 'Guide to Cuba,' which contains some very good information regarding this island." Oddly enough, that same "Guide to Cuba" was published in Havana by H. C. Beckley, of Guyer & Beckley, the printers of Bridge street, when he was in Havana about three years ago.

The new Nickelodeon in the old Baptist church building started up on Saturday evening and was very popular.

CANADA POSTAGE.

Postmaster General Says New Schedule Was Best Could Be Made.

Publishers are complaining of the Postoffice Department against the enforcement of the amendment to the postal convention with Canada relative to second-class matter. Last week Charles A. Munn of the Scientific American, and Robert F. Collier of Collier's Weekly appeared personally before the Postmaster General at Washington and were given a hearing. After the hearing the postmaster General gave out the following statement:

"The Department would have maintained gladly the existing postage rate and conditions, but Canada would not consent to a continuance. The alternatives remained: To allow the existing arrangement to expire May 7, and thus revert to the conditions of the Universal Postal Union, namely, for printed matter of all kinds, one cent for each two ounces or fraction of two ounces; or to effect a compromise, namely, one cent for each four ounces, bulk weight, prepaid by stamps affixed. The latter was the best arrangement that the Department could obtain."

Canadian publishers are complaining of the minimum rate on Canadian newspapers to the United States which is one cent a package. Inasmuch as a majority of the Canadian papers come to the United States in single packages, the rate of postage is heavy.

In the Senate at Ottawa recently Senator Ellis questioned the increase being in the best interest of the country. The good which the circulation of Canadian newspapers did in the United States, he said, was to be seen each year by the large number of Canadians in the United States who took part in the homecomings held in the towns and cities throughout the Dominion.

BOOMING CRAGO.

Washington and Greene Counties Out Strong for Him to Succeed Col. Barnett of the 10th.

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 20.—The National Guardsmen of Washington county have started a boom for the election of Lieutenant Colonel Thomas S. Crago of Waynesburg as Colonel of the Tenth Regiment, N. G. P., to succeed James E. Barnett of this place, who recently resigned. The election will be held in the Monongahela House, Pittsburg, Wednesday night, when it is believed by all his followers, both in Washington and Greene counties, that he will be elected by a large majority.

The headquarters of the Tenth Regiment have been in Washington for many years, being established there when Colonel A. L. Hawkins became the Regimental Commander, and the companies in this county desire to have Mr. Crago elected so that the headquarters will remain here. Mr. Crago's home is in Waynesburg, but all the heavy baggage will remain in Washington should he be elected.

Lieutenant Colonel Crago is considered a capable man for the position. He is well acquainted with all the work, having risen from the ranks up to his present office.

Crago was Captain of Company K throughout the Philippine campaign, and served with distinction and was a favorite, not only with his company, but the other companies coming from this section. It is likely that he will have the officers of Company K of Waynesburg, Company H of Washington and Company A of Monongahela with him for the election Wednesday night.

POLES CELEBRATE.

Signing of Poland's Constitution Object of Demonstration at Scottdale on Sunday Afternoon.

SCOTTDALE, May 20.—[Special.]—The 116th anniversary of the signing of the Polish Constitution was celebrated here yesterday afternoon by the Polish residents of the coke region. The meeting, preceded by a parade, was held in the opera house and was addressed by Adam Kuzminski of Pittsburg and A. T. Rakoczy of Wilkes Barre, Controller of the Polish National Alliance.

The speakers, while urging their people to keep in remembrance the struggle for Polish independence, emphasized the necessity of loyalty to the United States.

THRIFT

It is the Keynote of Success.

Simple old-fashioned thrift counts more for success than almost any other quality a man can possess. The man who is thrifty, who spends less than he earns and deposits the surplus in a good bank, is laying the foundation of a competence. The First National Bank of Connellsville, with its large resources and strong management, is a safe depository for thrifty people. It allows 4 per cent. compound interest on savings and furnishes little home safes free to assist its patrons in saving.

ANOTHER AUTOOPSY HELD BY CORONER.

Coffin Opened for Jury After Family Had Taken Last Look.

AT FUNERAL OF THOMAS GUESS

Another Autopsy Had Previously Been Held at Pittsburg, Where the Bellevernon Chief of Police, Slain by Cate, Died.

UNIONTOWN, May 20.—Although Thomas L. Guess, the late Chief of Police of Bellevernon, who was shot on Thursday by William L. Cate, died in Pittsburg, and an autopsy and inquest were held there and a verdict rendered, Coroner Hagan of Fayette county will hold an inquest here today. Hagan says another inquest is necessary to make things legal. After the funeral services yesterday he impaneled and swore in a jury and had it view the body in the coffin. The dead man's widow and son had taken their last look on the body and Hagan, after putting everybody but the jury out of the room, opened the wound on Guess' head, the wound being imperceptible before because of the treatment given by the undertaker, and called the jury's attention to it. No witnesses who saw the shooting have been called. As the autopsy held in Pittsburg was very complete and the course of the bullet was clearly traced, it is predicted that the Pittsburg autopsy is the one which will have to be quoted by the State when Cate is put on trial.

The funeral services were held at Chief Guess' late home in Connellsville street, he having been unable to take his family to Bellevernon, as Mrs. Guess is an invalid. She had to be carried to a carriage. The Rev. T. L. Wayne, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church, and County Organizer for the Prohibition party, preached the funeral sermon, which was largely devoted to the evil caused by drink, the murderer, it is said, having been partially drunk when he shot Guess.

The pallbearers were Jacson Sisler, Chief of Police of Uniontown; Hugh Hardin, Joseph Hagar and Charles Betts, Uniontown policemen, and Glen Miller of Mt. Pleasant. The body was buried at Fairchance, six miles away, where Chief Guess formerly lived, in a lonely graveyard at the base of the Chestnut Ridge.

A Connellsville Bride Says "It's Simply Fine."

A Connellsville bride called a few days ago "just out of curosity" as she said afterward, and talked over our system of selling a whole home outfit on the easy payment plan.

We explained the entire idea to her in nineteen words:—"Select whatever you want from our store and pay for it as you like—a little at a time."

"Why," she exclaimed, "is that all?"

"That is all," we assured her.

"Well, how simply fine," she exclaimed again.

"Yes," we replied, "and how finely simple."

She smiled and went on:—"Mama has always said it was a great thing to pay cash for everything. But, you see, we can't pay cash for we haven't enough to buy a whole home outfit. We have a little in the bank drawing interest but we don't like to disturb it just now.

And can I really pick out what I want and pay a little bit each week or month?

We assured her she most certainly could.

"And pay no more for it than if I gave you the cash?"

Again, we answered in the affirmative.

"Indeed, then, it is simply fine," she said.

And she made her selections.

Now then, this young lad lived in Connellsville for years but had never been inside the Aaron store before. This surprised us, for we were vain enough to suppose that everybody had called on us at one time or another.

This leads us to ask:—"Are there any others?"

You, for instance, have you never called? Do you know what accommodations we offer you? And how easy we are to get along with? And how anxious and ambitious we are to please? And how careful we will be to retain your trade and friendship?

You young married couples especially—do you know just what we will do toward making you beginning quite easy in the house furnishing line.

Won't you come and see for yourself?

And don't confuse us with any other house, will you?

Our methods are different. Our goods are different. Our treatment is different.

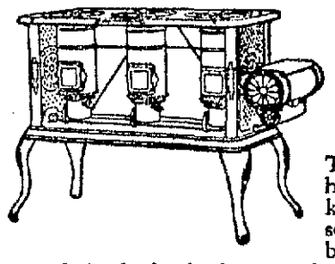

We know you'll say, "It's simply fine."

Reliable Footwear

Can be bought at JOHN IRWIN'S any day in the week, so it gives you an opportunity to buy RELIABLE shoes whenever you need them. The reason I handle reliable shoes is simply this, that when you sell a pair of shoes to a person and they wear so well, they will always come back for another pair. They just can't help it, and the shoes gives such comfort. It is wonderful the amount of comfort you can get out of a pair of shoes bought from JOHN IRWIN. I don't buy them by the carload, as so many merchants do, just buy them in the ordinary way. When you buy shoes by the car load you get so careless in your buying that you cannot get the quality and comfort that you will in buying them just the ordinary way. When you are in need of a pair of good, comfortable shoes, just come in and get a pair with a guarantee that you will be satisfied with.

CIRCUS COMING EARLY TOMORROW.

Hagenbeck-Wallace Combined Shows Are at Morgantown Today.

A BIG CROWD IN ATTENDANCE.

Street Parade the Greatest Ever Seen With Any Circus—Will Exhibit at Marietta & Stillwagon Park Tomorrow.

The Hagenbeck-Wallace Combined Shows are exhibiting at Morgantown and a report from there at the time of going to press says the crowd there is the largest in the history of the city. The Hagenbeck-Wallace Show is the largest show which has visited the up-river city since 1894 and the street parade at noon was pronounced the most brilliant and longest ever seen in that State.

The show comes here tomorrow. The run from Morgantown to Connellsville will be made on the Baltimore & Ohio. The first train will leave Morgantown immediately after the performance tonight and should be in the Connellsville yards by 2 in the morning All four of the sections ought to be in before daylight and the chances are the work of unloading will commence with the rising of the sun.

There is a sort of a mystery about the circus and its wonderful power on old and young. It is an indefinable something which cannot be explained and still exists in nearly every heart. The first big circus of the season is generally the first harbinger of spring and whether it is because people have tired of winter, tired of winter diversion or whether it is plain "Dementia Circusaun" is a question.

This feeling is much in evidence in Connellsville just now. The coming of this big show turns the most prosaic business man into a boy of 10 Were it not for his position he would run after the band wagon, carry water for the elephants, and even steal his way under the canvas. No matter how important the deal he has on for tomorrow, he will find time to see the parade and the engagement will indeed be important that keeps him from the afternoon or night performance One of the leading business men of this city, a man whose time is certainly worth two dollars an hour, spent two hours of the busiest part of the day discussing the coming of the Forepaugh show to Connellsville two or three decades ago. It seemed that he had the circus fever at the time and applied for a job as razor back. He stayed with the circus only two days, but his experience was worth hearing.

There is a pleasure in going down to the tracks and seeing the show come in that no small boy should be deprived of. There is instruction in the progress of the unloading for running a circus is a system. There is a delight in peering into the boarded up cages and speculating on the character of the animals within that isn't equalled by the joys of any other holiday in the year.

This show will exhibit at the Marietta-Stillwagon park. It is said, and in this event the show grounds will be handy for everyone. It looks now like Connellsville would have many guests tomorrow The restaurants, hotels, ice cream soda parlors, lemonade stands, cigar stands and associated line of business interests are preparing for an immense day.

The twenty-four hour man of the show is now in the city and is contracting for feed, hay and other provisions for the 1,065 people, 500 animals and 100 horses with the show. He will remain here until the circus arrives and will lay out the route over which the stuff will be hauled and the street parade, which will leave the grounds at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST

Comes to the Colonial Theatre on Wednesday, May 29.

"The Girl of the Golden West," a four act drama of California in the days of '49, written and staged by Mr. Belasco, will be seen at the Colonial Theatre Wednesday evening, May 29 Demands for seats for the performance here have been unusually numerous. The advance sale opens Wednesday, May 22, at Huston's drug store

"The Girl of the Golden West" as a play narrowly approaches "the great American drama" in many ways It is dramatic and thrilling in incident and situation, as might be expected of a play laid in such times and in such a place. No phase of American history is more typical of the strength and progress of the new country than that which deals with the gold fever of '49 on the slopes of the Sierra Nevada mountains and the dramatic values of the types which made the period unique have been fully and enthusiastically appreciated by Belasco master playwright and producer.

PROBLEM FOR ASSEMBLY

Whether to Indorse Anti-Saloon League or Organize Another.

Columbus, O., May 20.—Whether the general assembly of the Presbyterian church shall indorse the effort of the temperance committee to organize a church temperance federation or shall give its undivided support to the anti-saloon league is a question which will be pressed for settlement before the assembly at the earliest moment, probably next Wednesday.

The controversy, which was aroused by the organization of the Inter-Church Temperance Federation in Pennsylvania and a conflict which followed between the federation and the Anti-Saloon league over temperance legislation in that state cropped out in the general assembly when Dr David Wills Jr of Pittsburg, who had been appointed chairman of the temperance committee, resigned. Dr Henry E. Desker of Louisville, Ky., was then appointed chairman Dr Wills refused to discuss his reasons for resigning but it was said that he did not care to be in the thick of the fray.

The question of which movement the assembly will indorse will not be allowed to go to the temperance committee, however If leaders in the assembly can prevent although the question is discussed in the report of that committee to the assembly The present plan is to bring the subject up in the assembly Wednesday on overtures from the Presbyteries of Carlisle, Chicago, Minnewaukon and Phoenix.

SIX GIRLS IN BOXES

Betrayed by Sneezing When Steamer's Hold Is Fumigated.

Port Townsend, Wash, May 20.—Six Japanese girls, each nailed in a pine box, were nearly killed by sulphur fumigation on board the steamer Oanfa at Victoria. The girls, said to have been imported for immoral purposes, were consigned to K Sesoulden, a steerage passenger, alleged to be Taki Kaijoro, a procurer, who was deported from San Francisco two years ago. Through exchange of courtesies between British and American authorities the six women and Sessolden were brought here, and will be sent back to Japan on the Oanfa.

Smallpox broke out on the Oanfa, and on reaching Victoria the entire steerage was fumigated The hatches were battened down and sulphur was ignited below. In a short time violent sneezing was heard in a freight compartment The compartment was hurriedly opened, officers of the ship fearing that a pet cat had been imprisoned in the sulphur fumes. Surprise was great when a chorus of sneezes issued from the six heavy pine boxes, while frantic scratching in the cases betokened great anxiety to escape. On opening the cases, an almond-eyed girl appeared in each. A food and water supply was ingeniously placed in each box, which was fitted like a toy room.

Madrid, May 20—With even more pomp and ceremony than attended his first presentation to the officials on the day of his birth, May 10, Alfonso, Prince of the Asturias, was baptized in the private chapel of the royal palace, in the presence of the royal family, state and court officials, representatives of the foreign powers and a host of grandees, heads of the various Spanish orders and other important personages The Pope was represented by Cardinal Rinaldini, the papal nuncio; King Edward by Prince Arthur of Connaught, Emperor William by Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern; Emperor Francis Joseph by Archduke Eugene of Austria and King Charles of Portugal by the duke of Oporto.

Owing to the many duties requiring her attention Queen Victoria has given up the idea of nursing the Prince of the Asturias and a nurse has been obtained for him from the province of Santander.

These three with Eugene White, another Washington university student, were out in the lake in a canoe, when a sudden squall struck them. The canoe filled with water and upset, leaving the occupants struggling in the waves White almost succeeded in getting the girl to the canoe, but both the other men threw their arms around him and the four sank, White alone coming up. Three students in a small sail boat snatched White from the water while the boat was going a high speed.

The .... Rogue's March.

By E. W. HORNUNG,

Author of "Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman," "Stingaree," Etc.

Copyright, 1896, by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS.

The sob got loose, and she was wringing her hands and gazing at Tom through her tears as though her heart would break for him. In return he stared heavily at her, but shook his head as her meaning came home to him.

"Indeed an' it was," persisted Peggy. "Only for me you niver would have struck 'm at all. An' to think it was meself that warned ye in the beginning an' went an' drove ye to it in the end! If only you had let 'm strike me dead at his feet! It 'd have been better than that—an' this!"

Still he looked at her without a word, and still there was no light, no life, no feeling in the look, but only dumb and dead despair.

"You thought I liked 'im!" exclaimed Peggy wildly. "They've been tellin' ye their black lies in the huts. It's little they know how it's been between us from the start. I'll tell ye this, Tom, beither a hundhred times be the man he's a spite agin than the girl he's his wicked eye upon. That's Mr. Nat for ye, an' I hate 'im—I loathe 'im—'tis God's truth I'm telling ye. Tom, dear, he cot me out there last night—I niver wint out wid 'im. He cot me prowlin' about, as he said, an' that's the truth, too, though he tould it. I couldn't sleep for thinkin' o' the two o' yez. It's well I knew he was up to some divil's work at last. I'd seen 'im talkin'—an' what do you suppose he's up to now?" asked Peggy, going off at a tangent. "What do you suppose he's doin' at this moment? Lyin' dhrunk on his bed—lyin' de'd dhrunk for the shame of it! You knocked 'm down. You won't get over 't till his dyin' day. Nobody else iver so much as lifted a han' agin 'im on the farm. But glory be to God, you knocked 'im down!"

There was more than unthinking exultation in her tone; there was a very singular sort of pride also, and this as unthinking as the other, it was so ingenuous and plain. But Tom saw nothing with those dreadful eyes and heard but little beyond her soothing brogue. And then she did think and saw a mark on the blanket in a rod of moonlight (for she had shut the door) and cried out to God to forgive the most selfish woman in all the world.

She had thought of herself and not of Tom. She had talked about herself and not about Tom. In her selfishness she had forgotten what she had brought him, and a medicine bottle of pilfered milk and rum was at his parched lips in an instant. She made him drink of it, and drink deep, and mutton sandwiches, deliciously cut and salted, she put between his teeth with her own fingers, bite after bite, as though he had been her infant. And all the time she was railing at herself for forgetting this and being the most selfish woman in the world, while he ate and drank from her tender hand and never said a word.

But when this was over he took that hand in his, and so they sat as it seemed for hours in a thin rain of filtered moonshine. Still his eyes were steadily downcast the whole time. Thus they missed the happy tears in hers.

At last he spoke, and it was terrible, for she could not understand a word. Then he coughed and tried again and said, "God bless you, Peggy—only there isn't one in New South Wales!" And that left them both silent and the girl grieving openly for almost as long again.

Then he said quite quietly:

"You know I've been in the condemned cell, Peggy. But it was nothing to this. My God, it was nothing to this!"

Peggy pressed his hand.

"The condemned cell at Newgate," he went on. "I was there up to the very last night and heard the people taking their places to see me swing. Well, that night was nothing to this. And if they had hanged me in the morning it would have been nothing—nothing—it would have been nothing"—

The hoarse voice broke, sob after sob shook the tortured body, and the girl glowed with shame to find herself the useless witness of an agony so supreme. But his tears dried hers and bound their fount. It froze her heart to hear and see him. She was afraid to speak to him, to touch his hand. She withdrew a little, and her bare foot pressed a cold oasis on the warm ground. She stooped and picked up a coin.

"Ha!" cried Tom.

His voice was very bitter now, but under control in a moment.

"Where did it come from?" asked Peggy, with the coin to a shining crevice.

"I am ashamed to tell you," and he ground his teeth. "But you will never guess. From a greater brute than either of the Sullivans. He came to look at me just afterward. I was steaming like a horse in this blanket, and he came and gloated over me and flung me a farthing—a farthing—the very beast who ordered me the lashes and pretended to be so kind."

"A farth'n'!"

"Yes. God help him if ever I get his yellow throat between these ten fingers!" And they were clutching murderously in the air, and there was murder in every vibration of the husky voice.

"Sure, an' it isn't a farth'n' it is at all."

"What is it, then?"

"A sov'rin!"

And the soft Irish brogue was rich with honest satisfaction. She showed him the coin in triumph. He regarded it with a leaden eye.

"A sov'rin!" repeated Peggy, with enthusiasm. "Stick it in your pocket an' be grateful iver afther to Peggy's bare fut."

He shook his head.

"You won't?"

Another shake.

"'Tis sinful pride I call it," remonstrated the girl. "The kind man meant well"—

"The kind man!"

"An' isn't he?"

"I owe him a bit already," replied Tom. "Let me settle that first."

"But this he meant well, man. This is no farth'n'"—

"So much the worse. He thought to heal the wounds I owe him with a sovereign, did he? His conscience and my wounds! May they lie open and sting and throb and tickle all at once as they're doing now till I have my fingers at his throat!" The girl looked so frightened that he gulped at his passion and said, "You keep it yourself, Peggy, like a good girl. You deserve a purse of them for all you've done for me this night. Why, what now?"

He sat alone in the lockup. The girl had stolen swiftly out. In the unconscious egotism of his grief and shame this simply puzzled him. So he sat in the moonbeams, blinking at the moon, until she returned and once more closed the door.

"All's safe," she told him cheerfully. "I heard the thraps snorin' in their slape."

"Had you heard something else?"

"I had not."

"Then what was wrong?"

"Is it why I went out?" said Peggy, fixing him with an eye that was cheerful too. "To dhrop that sov'rin to the very bottom of their well. An' it's we will dhrop it, too, if you plase."

Tom held out his hand.

"I've offended you, Peggy. God knows I didn't mean to. But I'm capable of all that's brutal tonight. You see what they've made of me already. Forgive me, Peggy. I'll never forgive them. I'll be even with every one of them, curse them, curse them, and then I'll swing as I should have done a year ago. I'm sorry I didn't keep that pound—to give it him back for his coffin!"

It was terrible to hear him. His voice was very low and full of fresh tears that made it all sound worse. Peggy asked him what he meant to do.

"God help him if ever I get his yellow throat between these ten fingers!"

He meant to die, but not of the lash—the rope. He meant to hang as he should have hung the year before. If only he had! If only he had! But at last he recognized the fate reserved for him by a Providence he blasphemed, so now he would meet it halfway. He was sorry he had not done so long ago. He was sorry he had not driven a knife through Nat in the very beginning. But it was never too late to kill and die. It was only too late to die with a whole skin. And again his sobs and blasphemies were horrible to hear. Yet Peggy listened patiently and gradually secured him with a tender, tolerant, womanly word here and there, so that at last he looked at her through his tears—for he was utterly unmanned—and asked her out of pure curiosity what he had done to make such an enemy of Mr. Nat.

Peggy resumed her cheerful manner.

"An' don't ye know?" said she, masking a trembling lip with a smile. "Is it no notion ye have at all?"

"None whatever."

"Arrah, Tom, 'tis in love ye are entirely!"

At these words, which took him cruelly by surprise, so gave her a kind of wounded glare that was their confirmation whereupon she forced a giggle and asked him whom he supposed Nat had suspected him of being in love with.

Tom wearily gave it up.

"Be thinkin' a minute," said Peggy self consciously.

"Not you, was it?"

Peggy nodded.

"But what nonsense!" he exclaimed.

"An' it was all that," said Peggy.

"I mean we never saw each other. And was that all he had against me?"

"No; there was a little more than that."

She hesitated.

"What?" he asked.

"More of his nonsense, then, for he thought I was as bad as you."

"Idiot!"

"Idjut, indeed," said Peggy sadly.

"When we hadn't exchanged a dozen words!"

Not a dozen? Not many dozens perhaps, for up to tonight Peggy had them every one by heart. She was not so sure that she would be able to remember all they were saying now; she was not so sure that she should want to. But she steeled herself to answer cheerfully. And he guessed nothing then, for to speak of love was still to think of Claire, and to think of Claire was to pray that never in this life or another might she know or dream what had befallen him that day. But even with the prayer in his heart he remembered there was no God to hear it and was retracing his steps in this blind alley of despair when Peggy took his hand and finished a suggestion before his mind.

Why should he go back to the farm at all—to be bullied and beaten to death or desperation in a cruel and unequal war? He told her in reply what he calmly proposed to do, and her blood ran cold to hear him, then common sense came to her aid, and she showed him the folly rather than the wickedness of his diabolical plans. He listened sullenly, but said he could not answer for himself after this and pretended to take less than he really did to the suggestion that he should run away there and then. According to Peggy there was not another minute to lose.

Tom wanted to know where he was to run to but he began feeling about for his shirt. Peggy found it for him and noticed with a pang of instinctive jealousy, as the blanket fell apart in his movements, a mysterious something that he wore next his breast like a scapular. It was sewn up in oiled silk, which glistened in the feeble light, and in the bitter intuition that this precious possession was a packet of true love's letters she made him ask his questions twice.

Peggy then told him he must run due east for the sea, for it was but thirty miles from there, and she had a good mind to run with him since they were going to turn her into government without fail. This she said with a laugh, but he made no answer. His face was drawn with pain at every movement. It reminded Peggy of some scraps of cotton wool that she had brought for him to put over his lacerated skin, and a grateful look he gave her was her comfort and her hope, as she left him to fight his own battle with his shirt and set herself to pulling down the brushwood fence. A breach was easily and not noisily made, and both moon and stars were still crisp in the sky when Tom painfully followed the girl's lead and the two plunged together into the open bush.

"Djue east," repeated Peggy, stopping in the first thicket. "D'ye know the Southern Cross now? I'm afther misremimberin' it meself."

"Up yonder, Peggy. Those five."

"An' as like a cross as a han' saw! But as ye know 't ye can steer djue east by 't, an' djue east lies the say. If you're wantin' wather on the way, let the Southern Cross shine in your face, an' that'll bring ye to the river. I heard 'em say so as I waited table."

"I know, Peggy, I know. And when I get to the sea—if ever I do—well, at least my bones can sleep in it, instead of in this pestilent land!"

He stood eying her, eager to be gone, and yet reluctant to show ungrateful haste.

"An' why would they?" cried Peggy. "It's manny a convict has escaped on rat's befores ye, so why wouldn't you? Only fetch up wid the say an' there's hope!"

"Then, Peggy, there's no time to lose." And his hand was out in an instant.

"Ah, then, Tom, an' must I be lavin' ye?"

Her voice was altered.

"This is not the way to Castle Sullivan, Peggy. It's the very opposite direction. And I've got you into trouble enough, goodness knows!"

Her lips parted as though more arguments were on her tongue. But it was upon his white face the moon was shining, and his eagerness to go and go alone was now transparent.

"They have made you crule Tom," said Peggy, with a maiden sad dignity. "Goodby. Go your ways. God bless you!"

"Cruel to you?" he said densely.

"Yes, crule to me—to me that brought ye mate and dhrink, to me that 'd"—

"But what can I do?" he asked her in the same dull tone. "I am grateful to you with all the heart they've left me, but they tried their best to cut it out, and I believe they have. Make allowances for me, Peggy, and only tell me what I can do."

"Take me wid ye, Tom," she whispered.

"To the sea?"

"An' further!"

"My dear, how can I? If they follow me alone, I can fight them alone until I drop and die. With you I couldn't."

"An' wouldn't we dhrop and die together?"

And now there were tears in her voice that held his own tongue bound and now a light in her eyes that shot a ray through his brain at last. He understood and waited for his heart to bleed for her. When it would not, a great groan came from his soul.

"I can't help it, Peggy," he mumbled in his shame. "It's as you say. They've cut my heart out—cut it clean out, they have—and a cruel brute is all I can ever be now. Forgive me, my girl—and let me go. Never think twice about me. I'm not worth it—a brute like me! Peggy—Peggy"—

He had tried in his weakness to put his arms about her upon an impulse of pure sorrow and gratitude that flickered within him like the last ember in a fire. And the convict girl had turned so fiercely that her black hair swept and stung his face as she broke away from him once and for all. He saw her bare feet flashing in the moonlight; they fell too softly for his ears. But he heard her sobbing as she ran, and he pitied himself the more passionately for the little he found it in him to pity her.

Is very careful about her churn. She scalds it thoroughly after using, and gives it a sun bath to sweeten it. She knows that if her churn is sour it will taint the butter that is made in it. The stomach is a churn. In the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts are performed processes which are almost exactly like the churning of butter. Is it not apparent then that if this stomach-churn is foul it makes foul all which is put into it?

The evil of a foul stomach is not alone the bad taste in the mouth and the foul breath caused by it but the corruption of the pure current of blood and the dissemination of disease throughout the body. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes the sour and foul stomach sweet. It does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the churn—absolutely removes every tainting or corrupting element. In this way it cures blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings, sores, or open eating ulcers and all humors or diseases arising from bad blood.

If you have bitter, nasty, foul taste in your mouth, coated tongue, foul breath, are weak and easily tired, feel depressed and despondent, have frequent headaches, dizzy attacks, gnawing or distress in stomach, constipated or irregular bowels, sour or bitter risings after eating and poor appetite, these symptoms, or any considerable number of them, indicate that you are suffering from biliousness, torpid or lazy liver with the usual accompanying indigestion, or dyspepsia and their attendant derangements.

The best agents known to medical science for the cure of the above symptoms and conditions, as attested by the writings of leading teachers and practitioners of all the several schools of medical practice, have been skillfully and harmoniously combined in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. That this is absolutely true will be readily proven to your satisfaction if you will but mail a postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a free copy of his booklet of extracts from the standard medical authorities, giving the names of all the ingredients entering into his world famed medicines and showing what the most eminent medical men of the age say of them.

GREAT WHEAT SCARE

The Bulls in Market Declare There Will Be Shortage in World's Supply.

OTHERS TAKE DIFFERENT VIEW

Say Boom is Artificial and Will Soon Subside—Green Bug and Bad Weather Consequences Greatly Exaggerated—Brokers Reap Harvest

Chicago May 20—Last week with its dollar wheat was a historic one for the Chicago board of trade While statistics on the quantity of wheat which changed hands are not obtainable, veteran traders assert that the volume of business was of unprecedented proportions There have been wild sessions in the wheat pit before notably when 'corners' were run, and when prices fluctuated more violently, but never before has there been a broader or better sustained general market Stock clerks have worked into the small hours trying to keep track of the business done Hardly a brokerage house in Chicago has a sufficient force of clerks in the wheat pit to fill the orders which are pouring in from Maine to California. Telegraph wires cannot handle the mass of daily business Only the larger orders are considered In the language of the pit, "It is not a market for a piker"

Crop reports private and public the solemn verdicts of 'experts' statistics official and unofficial, crop estimates and the enticing literature of the commission houses who are growing rich on commissions alone vary noticeably in detail, but they are united in the statement that the world cannot grow this year all the wheat it will consume Minor items such as green bug damages and the like, have been made much of but the weather here and abroad is the all important factor Winter has lingered so long in the lap of spring that the whole country has observed it and bought wheat

Even Liverpool importers, who usually work for cheap wheat in America have bought directly in this market, a precautionary measure they were compelled to take in the face of the certainty that their action would bull prices still further They bought early in the week at what would now be called bargain prices

Most traders proclaim loudly still higher prices but take profits on good advances One house however has come out with a note discordant to the chorus, declaring that the market is one manufactured by big houses who have made a mountain of damage out of a mole hill of unsatisfactory weather and green bugs

The week ended with the indicator pointing to the success of the bulls with May wheat showing a net gain of 4⅝c July 4⅝c September, 3¾c and December 3½c

This week promises to furnish speculative excitement for there has been no material change in crop conditions reported

SCHMITZ MAKES CHARGES

Demands Another Trial Judge on Ground of Prejudice

San Francisco May 20—District Attorney Langdon was last night served by Mayor Schmitz's attorneys Metson Campbell & Drew John J Barrett and C H Fairall with notices of a motion for substitution of trial judge on the ground that Judge Frank H Dunne is disqualified by bias and prejudice

Accompanying and supporting this motion is a lengthy affidavit by Schmitz in which charges are made against Rudolph Spreckels his associates in the bribery graft prosecution, and Judge Dunne himself Schmitz is charged jointly with Abraham Ruef with extorting money from French restaurants Ruef last week pleaded guilty Among Schmitz's allegations are the following

That Mr Spreckels and the associates who are with him the financial guarantors of the bribery graft investigation and prosecution long since exhausted the original fund of $100 000 pledged by Spreckels and have expended nearly $1 000 000 in a municipal purification campaign that the expenditure of this vast sum of money is by way of an investment from which actual monied returns are expected that Spreckels and his prosecuting associates desire and purpose to overthrow the present municipal administration in order that they themselves may assume the reins of government and procure for themselves street railway and water franchises which will net them millions of dollars of the public money that Judge Dunne is aware of this intent and purpose and is therewith in accord that the conviction of Schmitz is desired as a means to these ends and that it is the wish of Judge Dunne that a biased and prejudiced jury be selected to procure such conviction that for that and various other reasons the same as set forth recently by Abraham Ruef in his application for a substitute trial judge it is impossible for Schmitz to have a fair and impartial trial at Judge Dunne's hands

COSSACKS WILD WITH RAGE

Brutal Slaughter of Innocent People Causes Much Excitement

Lodz Russian Poland May 20—Intense excitement prevails throughout this city in consequence of the outrage perpetrated by Cossacks at Kuttner's Cotton mills which resulted in the killing or wounding of about 75 persons The people fear to leave their houses

A correspondent of the Associated Press visited the cotton mills this morning and found ample evidence of the brutality of the Cossacks The walls were riddled with bullets the machinery was bespattered with blood and blood stains on the floor showed where the killed and wounded fell In the cotton mills and a carpenter shop near them the Cossacks killed 25 persons and wounded about 50

When the Cossacks found that the robbers of the mail wagon had fled they stormed the cotton mills which are opposite the postoffice First they hacked the porter to pieces killed the manager bookkeeper and three clerks and then invaded the workshops The entry of the Cossacks was not noticed owing to the noise of the machinery They poured volley after volley into the rooms and then attacked the unarmed employes with sabres and bayonets A score of bodies of men and women were so terribly mutilated that they were almost unrecognizable When a doctor arrived on the scene a Cossack slashed him with his sabre almost severing his head

Before leaving the premises the Cossacks appropriated the contents of the safe and looted the place of everything of value they could carry away

An hour later the Cossacks attacked a carpenter shop in the vicinity of the postoffice fired a volley wildly through the windows and killed or wounded several men and women who were employed in the place

180,000 DEMONSTRATE

Frenchmen Demand That Government Protect Wine Industry

Perpignan France May 20—A giant demonstration in which 180 000 persons took part was held here for the purpose of urging the government to remedy the distress caused by the over-production of wines and the extensive sale of wines manufactured from grape refuse and sugar People arrived in every imaginable kind of conveyance from all parts of the south Many arrived by special train numbers of them refusing to pay their fares and the railway officials being powerless to collect them

After a parade a meeting was held at which the speakers demanded immediate action by the government to stop the widespread wholesale adulteration of wine Strong forces of infantry and cavalry had been drafted into the city and were held in readiness in case of trouble but the demonstration was orderly and their services were not needed

Mrs Pepper is a noted beauty and before her marriage to Col Pepper traveled abroad where she was regarded by many critics as the most beautiful woman to visit Europe from America Before his death Colonel Pepper exacted the promise from Mrs Pepper that she permit her statue to rest on the monument at the head of his grave

WHIPPED LIKE BRUTES

State of Delaware Inflicts Awful Torture Upon Offenders

Wilmington Del May 20—For God's sake stop! You're killing me

Down on his knees at the foot of the whipping post Delaware's relic of medieval times Adam Ward a 19 year old youth made this frantic appeal to Warden Meserve as the cat o nine tails cut frightful welts on his naked back One hand which he had torn free from the bindings was extended frantically toward the warden who wielded the whip

Stopping to parley with the youth Warden Meserve commanded

Stand up Ward You know I am not doing this of my own will But the law must be carried out and I must do it

I know I know It's not your fault But for God's sake stop

But this appeal too fell on unheeding official ears Ward so weak he could hardly stand was dragged to his feet His free hand was again bound to the post and the whipping continued Forty times the terrible lash fell upon his shoulders

It was only a part of the punishment the youth must undergo following his conviction for highway robbery One year in prison is the rest of his punishment

In all nine persons were whipped The spectacle was the most terrible in the history of this method of punishment which is still clung to in Delaware
